

To my Japanese Neurosurgical Colleagues, and especially the Young Japanese Neurosurgeons,

It is with great pleasure that I write this letter to invite you to the 48th Annual Meeting of the International Society for Pediatric Neurosurgery, which will be taking place in Singapore from 4th to 8th October 2020.

The Annual Scientific Meeting of the ISPN is the premier venue for the exchange of medical and scientific information for the management of children with neurosurgical illnesses. It will also provide you with tremendous opportunities to meet like-minded and passionate neurosurgeons who care for children and to exchange experiences and narratives. For those who are undecided about a career in paediatric neurosurgery, this meeting may help you make your decision (and hopefully you will consider dedicating part or all of your neurosurgical life to the care of children!).

Whatever your reason, do come to Singapore, our vibrant cosmopolitan city located at Asia's crossroads, where you will find an eclectic blend of the East and West, of culture, cuisine, arts, science, technology and architecture. Spend a few days in a destination where you will discover enriching and memorable experiences, and at the same time, learn somethings about paediatric neurosurgery! You may also discover or re-discover your passion for paediatric neurosurgery!

I sincerely welcome you to join us in Singapore for ISPN 2020. Come and help us make his a special meeting for all of us, and for the children in Asia. Help us fuel the growing need for paediatric neurosurgery in South-east Asia and its surrounding regions. Help us foster the growth and development of paediatric neurosurgery in our part of the world, in Asia!
